

Dealership business intelligence can identify the precise area which is delivering the most revenue.

Executive delivers to you the detailed report.

Executive

Providing reports to increase your business revenue.

What is Executive?

Executive is a business intelligence reporting tool which allows you to uncover the most profitable items in your business. It has been designed for people who are information hungry but short on time.

What are the benefits?

Executive provides the ability to drill down and access all KPI measurables across your business and identify precise areas to increase revenue or highlight issues. With simple training, you'll understand how to access more than one hundred standard 'snapshots' of your business.

Being integrated into the DMS allows you to review all reports using real time information.

Some examples include profiling used car inventory to match sales demand to available stock thereby maximising return on investment by stocking the right mix of vehicles.

Access service department productivity reports to identify trended information of workshop productivity by month, team or mechanic.

Use the new car stocking guide to minimise floorplan payout by stocking the right cars to match sales demand.

Other views include profit and loss, balance sheet, comparative analysis and actual to budget financial reporting.

Tell me more.

You no longer need to wait until end of month after spreadsheets have been built or reports created to learn the most crucial information on business performance.
